

NextPlans Partners with Cadnetics

Posted At : April 2, 2013 10:18 AM | Posted By : Chris Perkins

Related Categories: Construction News

Contact: Stephanie Hinson, (866)215-0428, shinson@nextplans.com Charlotte, NC - March 29, 2013

NextPlans, an industry leading provider of construction performance management software and tools, is pleased to announce a partnership with Cadnetics. Cadnetics is a firm that offers CAD, BIM, 3D Laser Scanning and other consultative services. They are headquartered in Pittsburgh and do work throughout the United States.

Zane Sharpe, Vice President of NextPlans said, "We are excited to be able to offer our end-users access to a company that can fulfill an immediate need. " Sharpe also added," With more and more project utilizing modeling for coordination, subs and vendors can use Cadnetics as a turn-key resource rather than absorb new software and overhead costs."

Jim Mauler, President of Cadnetics stated, "NextPlans provides service to over 100,000 end users in just about every market-sector of construction. Our experience in the Southeast on wide-range of projects makes this a good partnership."

Click here for more information on Cadnetics.